je12 Im JOSHUA BROWN, 65 Ganal-st. Gold, N. Sillver, Diamonds, Pearl, and all the most precious and costly gents, are minitated to such perfection, that but very few animitated can positively tell a paste breach or ring from a diamond, the real Pearl from the initiation, or German Silver from the genuine; but put them into the hands of the comonisseur, how soon the delusion vanishes, when he affirms they are but base and vile initiations. So it is with the most valuable inventions as well as stones and metals—none but the minitable in value are initiated in appearance, and as soon as the consumer (the just conneisseur) attempts to use them, how soon he finds out their utter melessines. The advantages of a guede hand are tose well appreciated to need smuch comment. The applicant to a merchant's counting house knows that, next to a good-character, it is the surest passport to success.
The same is true as regards all mercantile—all prefessional situations.
As ungainly and irregular style of Writing is still more out of place in a lady-a graceful hand being considered one of the districtive marks of refinement and good taste—in fact, a necessary accomplishment in the sex.

Mr. G. would increly refer the Ladies and Centismen of New-York and Brooklyn to the fact, that he has for three successive years borne off the First Fremanium for the best specimens of off-hand Penamanship from all competitors, at the Fairs of the American Institute.

Mg. Goldskith.—He is, we say unhesitatingly, the most accomplished off-hand Peniman we have ever sees. We have known persons to labor days to produce ornamental writing, which, when finished, was altogether wasting in the symmetrical heavity and finished elegance of that which he literally dashes from the point of his pen with the rapidity of light. We do not wonder that he has received three successive premiums from the American Institute, or that his spacious rooms are daily crowded with new popils.
